

Two real alignments show why aggregate scores need external validation

Both pairs come directly from the final A+B+C file; Wikidata QIDs provide independent identity evidence for these examples.

Externally confirmed

Externally contradicted

